

Sergio Perelman

Director Global Packaging Sustainability, US Mondelez

Sergio M. Perelman leads Global Packaging Sustainability at Mondelez International. He is a passionate believer in the role of packaging in driving sustainable and resilient food and consumer goods supply systems.

He has held responsibility for packaging development, engineering and procurement activities in the consumer goods sector for 30 years in Unilever, The Clorox Company and Mondelēz International. Sergio was born in Buenos Aires, Argentina, and has lived and worked in 5 countries across the Americas and Europe.

His experience in packaging sustainability started in Europe 13 years ago and spans both retail and food service segments. Sergio graduated Summa Cum Laude with a bachelor's degree in Mechanical Engineering from Buenos Aires University and holds a master's degree in Business Administration from the Argentine Institute of Business Development.